I need to figure out a good way to check if the cursor is in the right place in a tkinter window. If the user is simply dragging the mouse from one window to another, how can I know where the mouse cursor is at any moment of time? I need to know whether the cursor is left of the left-most scrollbar, right of the rightmost scrollbar, or whether it is centered somewhere in between. I could set tags on the scrollbars and the bounds of the window, and then check the tags every time I receive a mouse click event. The problem with this is that I don't know how to tell which scrollbar the cursor is over (there are two scrollbars, and the user can't tell which one the cursor is over). I don't want to hard-code my own scrollbar, since that would require me to rewrite the scrollbar for each and every window that I create, and it seems like there should be a better way to do this. A: It is possible to do it as you suggested. I would add a couple of methods to c9d1549cdd
