The new feature brings an evolution to player reaction and reaction in the game. While the virtual reaction of a player during animations such as a free kick or goal kick does not need to be so precise, the overall player simulation needs to be faithful and accurate. Hence, the new 'HyperMotion Technology' represents a significant breakthrough in the game. During tests on the pitch, players working as a motion capture camera and player created a perfect correlation between the simulation and the real-life movement. The best example is a player trying to make a tackle. "If a player is right in front of the camera, he can identify if he is making a tackle," says Peter Prokop, Director of Player Behavior and Physics. "In our tests we could clearly see that the corresponding data for the simulation is perfect, compared to the real player." Prokop continues, "This technology is another step towards a complete simulation of the players. The on-pitch graphics are already very close to the real players. The feedback we got from the first tests is very positive and we are now using all the data we have to work on our players." Related news stories: FIFA COO and Executive Vice President of EA SPORTS, Jacob "Dr. Jacobs" Moore stated: "As we learn more about how players and the game interact in the real world, it is our belief that this year's player reactions in our game will continue to enhance the experience." FIFA COO and Executive Vice President of EA SPORTS, Jacob "Dr. Jacobs" Moore stated: "FIFA is all about immersion. We create the most realistic game for the player and not the other way around. It's our goal to get every player to feel the fear of the unknown. We are committed to creating more in-depth and deeper interactions with the players and hopefully, by providing these interactions, more fun and realistic gameplay, our players will become more invested in FIFA." "To really be able to capture the players with the physics engine, one of the key components of the video game development, is an important breakthrough for us," says Dr. Jacobs. "We look forward to testing the feature with our players and see what they think." FIFA 22 will be available on PlayStation 4, Xbox One and PC September 29, 2018. Summer Camp 2020 Our summer camp

What's new:

- FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology," which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. The on-the-pitch action looks even more realistic as players react to your positioning as you deliver a pass and gain possession.
- New theme music and bonus challenges have also been added to FIFA 22.
- FIFA 22 includes two new game modes: "Inspire The World" and "Tackle Academy."
- In "Inspire The World," you can help coach an aspiring Pro from around the globe and see where your Pro scores in their position of play. Want to take it further? You can even help select a FIFA Pro better than your Pro. Then you can watch as the Pro loses their first Premier League match. Are they good enough to step up onto the pitch? Create a better Pro than yourself and make them a hero.
- This new mode has 70 challenges, 60 of which include an interactive element. These tasks include training random Pro players and giving them roles, performing individual drills and teaching key attributes, and putting them through unseen situations in high-level matches against other Pro players. About three hours of training will take place on the main menu, and the Pro player will then have to perform drills like dribbling on one leg, passing with two touches, and one-touch passing.
- Tackle Academy is a new mode that is designed to be the most immersive and complete way to learn to deliver, receive and tackle passes from FIFA Pro players. You can then see which of the 13 passes you have struggled with, and improve your tackling movement using the on-the-pitch challenge to teach the basics, step-ups and positioning.

- Other new Ultimate Team items include dribble control passes, skill snaps, distance strikes, dribble stutters, dribble controls, long pass dodges, improved no-look passes and improved throw-ins. Tons of new player cards are also available with the new update.
- The new "Hard Player AI" settings have been introduced. These settings can be found in-game (manual checks on the P1, P2 and
