Club Industry News Eden's CrossFit Level 3 Coach Training Program Begins October 1st PORTLAND, Ore. (Sept. 14, 2015) — Dynamic Movement Systems, Inc. (DMS) has announced a new Level 3 coach training program for its proprietary fitness training system, Eden. The new Level 3 training program will launch October 1st, and will include an extensive training period of eight weeks through April. The Level 3 training program is designed for current level 2 coaches and well-trained athletes wishing to become Level 3 coaches. The program is comprised of four components: two dozen core classes, plus supplementary courses in pull-ups and gymnastics, and applied classes in cross training, flexibility, performance nutrition and other areas. The Level 3 training period begins with an eight-week "long course" where coaches will be introduced to techniques and they will perform a first-phase coach course. The Level 3 training program also includes a six-month supplemental course in cross training, flexibility and performance nutrition for Level 3 coaches, and a two-month cross training course for Level 3 coaches. Recognizing the need for consistency between Level 1 and Level 2 coaches, or those who are new to the sport, DMS decided to include a Level 2-to-Level 3 certification option. Level 1 and 2 coaches, no matter their fitness level or length of time coaching, will receive free access to the Level 3 training program. The Level 2-to-Level 3 certification option requires the payment of $1,250 and can be applied for once all Level 3 course components are completed. Coaches and athletes can reserve their spot in the Level 3 training program by visiting www.e79ca774b
