The world of Elden, the home of the Elden Ring, is divided into five kingdoms: Asmodan, Synthas, Novaria, Gharbadan, and Dalisar. Every kingdom has its own ruling lords and kings. In addition, there is one country called Zoka, which is an independent country free from any influence. In order to become the ruler of each kingdom, you must pass the Brotherhood of Elden, which is a tyrannical organization whose goal is to protect the stability of the kingdom. Those who reach this goal after 10 years of trial and error are granted access to the ranks of the Elden Ring. They are said to be the masters of their own destiny. The lands between the kingdoms are called the Lands Between. It is an area of unknown lands, dangerous monsters, and enormous scale. It is the only region that has an effect on the outcome of the story. It is said that the lord of the Elden Ring chooses only one of the two main characters from the Lands Between. The main story After passing the Brotherhood of Elden, you are granted the chance to become an Elden Lord. During a ritual that takes place for the new Elden Lords in the Elden Ring headquarters, you must defeat the leader of the Brotherhood of Elden, called the "Test Lord". However, you might be unable to pass the test without the help of the "Emulator Lord". When the time comes, you will have to fight a battle with the Test Lord in the Lands Between. Afterwards, you will find yourself in the Elden Ring headquarters, where the story will continue. The main character The main character is an Elden lord who is likely to play a central role. He has already passed the Brotherhood of Elden and might even be the Emulator Lord. The main character is likely to be among the several main characters in the game. In order to become an Elden Lord, you must pass the Brotherhood of Elden. However, there are five different types of trials, and the main character is one of the Elden Lord candidates. The main character will have one of the four roles, and as such he will have a different story. Whether the main character is among the Elden Lord candidates or a new candidate, the player can freely choose a history, a looks, and a story. The main character will be a young boy who is usually obedient

Q: Error binding to the target method on the controller I'm trying to bind a simple viewbag to my model and then add it to the View using a data binding expression. Here's what I'm trying to do: @Html.LabelFor(model => model.ApplicationName, new { @class = "label" }) @Html.TextBoxFor(model => model.ApplicationName, new { @class = "form-control" }) @Html.ValidationMessageFor(model => model.ApplicationName) @Html.TextBoxFor(m => m.Rating, new { @class = "form-control" }) @Html.ValidationMessageFor(m => m.Rating) @Html.LabelFor(m => m.Added, new { @class = "label" }) @Html.TextBoxFor(m => m.Added, new { @class = "form-control" }) @Html.ValidationMessageFor(m => m.Added) @Html.TextBoxFor(m => m.Updated, new { @class = "form-control" }) @Html.ValidationMessageFor(m => m.Updated) I'm using automapper to properly map the model into my viewmodel. Everything works fine (except for the "Added" field) until I try to bind the viewbag value back to the model: public ActionResult Add(ModelViewModel model) { AppContext db = new AppContext(); db.Add.Add(model.ApplicationName, model.Rating, model.Added, model.Updated); db.SaveChanges(); return View("Home", model); } The line I'm having trouble with is: db.Add.Add(model.ApplicationName, model.Rating, model.Added, model.Updated); When I debug this line, it breaks on the "model" parameter and I get the following error: Error 2 Cannot implicitly convert type 'System.Collections.Generic.List' to 'System.Collections.Generic.List' I've looked around online and I can't bff6bb2d33

Cyclosporin H (CsH) is a specific inhibitor of protein synthesis in the malaria parasite. Mutants resistant to CsH have been selected by in vitro cultivation of CsH-sensitive K1 strain of Plasmodium falciparum. These mutants have been characterized in terms of their sensitivity to cyclosporine A (CsA), CsH, and other antimalarial agents. At least five distinct classes of CsH-resistant mutants were obtained by culturing isogenic lines of CsH-sensitive K1 strain in vitro. The IC50 of CsA in 3 of these mutants was 48-175 times lower than that of the isogenic CsH-sensitive K1 strain. The three remaining mutants produced normal amounts of the drug-inhibitory protein (PfPI) from the dihydrofolate reductase (DHFR) multigene family in contrast to the remaining five mutants, which produced only 2-5% of the amount of PfPI produced by the sensitive K1 strain. The three mutants with low sensitivity to CsA and normal production of PfPI were resistant to CsH (IC50 = 125-300 nM). The remaining five mutants with high CsA resistance were resistant to CsH (
