I bought it last week and had a few questions about it. 1: The engine gets much more power than the previous J. 500 more to be exact. Does it increase the speed as well or is it a rather gentle upgrade? 2: Is the car more stable than the previous J. or was the previous J just that much more stable than the J.D. at the time of the car's production, with the added refinement? 3: Do the J.D. wheels slip? If it's the case it's not a big problem with the new J. Is there any noticeable difference compared to the previous J. with the J.D.? 4: Last but not least: What's the road-handling like? By the way, I'm trying to compare the Duesenberg model J. to the Phaeton. The Duesenberg G is even bigger and faster, though. Re: Duesenberg model J in the USA Ah my apologies. You are right, it's the model J. (not the model G) 1: The engine gets much more power than the previous J. 500 more to be exact. [Treatment of soft tissue gunshot wounds of the extremities with the gold suture]. To evaluate the effect of the gold suture in the treatment of soft tissue gunshot wounds of the extremities. From January 2000 to October 2004, the gold suture was used in the treatment of soft tissue gunshot wounds of the extremities. The gold suture is composed of the gold wire and the plastic suture. The gold wire is diameters are 0.5, 0.8, 1.0, 1.2, 1.4, 1.6, 1.8, 2.0, 2.2 and 2.5 mm. The plastic suture is 2/0 in some cases and 2/0-1/0 in others. The lateral femoral cutaneous nerve and the obturator nerve should be divided a little. The gold suture was used in 8 cases. The area of the injury was large with 1.5-2.5 cm. The wound should be compressed after the gold suture was placed. The patients were followed up for 5-9 months. There were obvious differences in wound healing and the cosmetic effect between the gold suture and the other suture. The healing time of the wounds by the gold suture was short and the wound quality was excellent. The gold suture is a good material for the treatment of the soft tissue gunshot wounds of
