We've had a lot of requests for a soccer remake of the classic game, Grand Prix, so we worked on it from scratch to try to get it right. Let's dive into what we did, and how we did it. The game starts with a team consisting of 5 players and a goalkeeper. There is a way to recruit another player, but you'll have to watch out, as there are a lot of rules in Grand Prix, so if a player leaves, it can be dangerous! As time goes on, you'll be able to use new technologies, like the Rocketboots. We hope you enjoy it! The most awesome custom wallpaper app ever. What's new in Touhou Kouryudou ~ Unconnected Marketeers.:

is a series of thoughts, insights, opinions, musings, explorations, etc., about being a pilot of aircraft. We'll cut'n'paste other people's well-written stuff and tease out some acronyms and otherwise have a good cry. Sunday, November 29, 2009 I'm back, baby, and I've got a story to report! Following the links on my banner of postings I've discovered that after then bringing the words of the Lord's Supper to the frickin' colonies that a writer wrote a short story too and even sang it. We haven't been much about the internet lately, so here we go. First, at the prompting of my wife, who is also a poet, I've got a piece of fiction. It was written for the fifth grade of the boys from my son's school. They were a gang of goofballs, so I wouldn't expect anything from them. But they surprised me with their work and I want to share it with others, especially those with a love of storytelling: Dan and Ben In a strange and wonderful dream they decided to make a grand anniversary trip to Palm Desert, the best place in all the world, so they had a lot of money for traveling. Dan and Ben bought a car, a camper which allowed them to sleep, places to eat, and play games. However, there was a problem: it takes a lot of gas to drive from New York to California, so they needed to find a station in Nevada to fill up. How to do that? By a stroke of luck, Dan and Ben found out a truck from California looked just like their car. Dan drove the truck to the station in Nevada and traded places with it. Then he bought gas for his car and the truck. Owing to the problem of their not having found out how to sync their watches, the time was a little bit different. Not much later, Dan and Ben returned and gave the other driver a split of $50 each. The driver wept like never before. "Oh, gee, I'm so sorry. How did this happen? I was only doing my job. I didn't think." Daniel said, "That's okay. If it were up to me, I'd have done it, too. I've always wanted to see Palm Desert." "Me, too," Ben said, crying into his rouge-
