The issue saw trains stopping and passengers having to clamber over barriers to get onto the platform. A Metrolink spokesman said: "Service on the entire Metrolink network is affected this evening due to a failure to clear a graffiti lorry's hoarding on Green Lane. "All services have been halted, and passengers should expect significant disruption. "We'd like to apologise to all customers affected, and thank them for their patience." The service would start running again at around 9pm, but Metrolink said the problems could be repeated at any time. Nigel Wright, from Bristol-based Hurstpierpoint & District Bus Company, called the situation "a real shambles", adding: "I'd be asking if there was any one that could carry out the work or at least look at it, but I haven't got any idea what it will cost, if it's going to cost anything." A National Rail spokeswoman said: "Passengers have been advised that trains are currently experiencing significant delays due to a long-standing breakdown at a level crossing on Green Lane. "Trains are being diverted via the Charlton Kings spur and going via the Pill and Green Lane."Q: How to share variadic template function? I'm trying to share a variadic template function like this: template T foo(T1 data1, T2 data2, T... dataN) { return foo_impl(data1, data2, dataN...); } template T foo_impl(T...data) { // do something } Ideally, this code would be available in any module in my code base. I've tried putting it in a header file and even in a header 6d1f23a050
