The second round of Democratic presidential debates was canceled on August 28 because of concerns over COVID-19, prompting Stephen Colbert to crack a joke: "It's official. The Democratic National Convention has been canceled." He then stated that he was looking forward to some clarity on who the candidates for the nomination are, "anyone but Bernie," and joked that 2020 is about "who can be the most boring to listen to." Jimmy Kimmel, meanwhile, touted that his guests for this week's show were going to be "the most famous Trump babies who were born in the last six months." No, not all of Trump's kids. Kimmel then touched upon some of the leading Democrats, including Beto O'Rourke, Cory Booker, Joe Biden, Kamala Harris, Bernie Sanders, and Julian Castro, stating, "The guy who will be the least like Trump when he's president is my least favorite. He's not going to look like Trump and he's not going to campaign like Trump. But, he can be like him." Finally, David Letterman "makes a joke about The Donald's obsession" with starting wars, and they all seem "especially tame" compared to the "antics" of the Republican National Convention.
