I don't know about you, but we all, including myself, can't listen to the same thing for a long time. If you listen to music for a long time, then it becomes boring. I'm not talking about something supernatural. It's about pop music, about pop idols, about what we listen to every day. This is perhaps one of the reasons why we want to try something new and different. It was the same with me. If you remember, I wanted to buy myself headphones in the style of the Beyerdynamic DT 770 Pro headphones, which cost 10,000 UAH.

No, what's happening is the NFL commissioner, Roger Goodell, is in town to work out this league-sanctioned exhibition game between the Washington Redskins and Green Bay Packers, the first regular-season matchup between NFL franchises since September of 1971. And the commissioner wasn't having any talk of any sort of Seahawks presence, NFL's Frank Burke told The Associated Press. "It's a Redskins-Packers game. That's all I can say," Burke told the AP in a telephone interview Tuesday. "We'll see how it goes. I haven't had a conversation with Pete. He'll just do his job and do it in a way that he knows how to do it. And so will the Redskins and the Packers. That's the only thing I know. That's all I know." Goodell had noted the Redskins' home crowd advantage. There was also some speculation among fans about the possibility of Seahawks coach Pete Carroll being there to see the Packers, who have been active in trade discussions that have included the Seahawks. But Carroll and his team are doing their Sunday practice on the Seahawks' home turf in Seattle. "It's my understanding that Coach Carroll will not be in attendance," Burke told the AP. "I haven't talked to him about it, and I would be very, very surprised if he would have anything to do with this. It's a Redskins-Packers game." Redskins owner Daniel Snyder and Carroll are trying to move past the shoving that marred the Thanksgiving Day showdown at FedEx Field in 2010, where Carroll and Snyder were among the losing parties. Carroll did mention Monday in an interview with KIRO-TV in Seattle that it was "really a great atmosphere" that day, one in which the fans weren't nearly as hostile as they were in the previous meeting between the teams. Carroll's team will have a week of practice before Thursday's game in Landover, Md., because of the game at Kansas City earlier this month, and he said the rest will help his young team c6a93da74d
