motorola mcs2000 package content MTC3000 RNS2WBT er7 programer MiniManual&UserGuide NanoEthernet cabext cable Software is written to run in the Windows 98 OS. To transfer the Microsoft radio control software to the MCS2000 you MUST know the 1225 serial number of your radio. You can get this serial number from the counter of the radio located on the back of the radio. To find the serial number of your radio, when the radio powers up, you should see the 1225 and a serial number that is 6 digits long. The 6th digit should have been zeroed out and should have the value of the radio serial number. 3. When you start to program the radio you will be prompted to download the file. Select Yes, and the CPS software will begin to download and install the radio software, and the lights will turn off. Once the lights are off, the CPS software has finished downloading the radio software to the radio. Keep this power on until the next time you program the radio because the next time you program the radio you will be prompted to download the software again. The lights will flash 3 times after the software has finished downloading, and then the lights will start to flash 4 times. Once the software has finished downloading, the CPS software will stop flashing and the light will stop flashing. This is all done within a minute, and then the power to the unit is needed for a few minutes. To save power, the CPS software will automatically power off the radio and shut down the lights for a few seconds each time. 4. The MCS2000 will ask you if you want to start the program every time you program the radio. I found that I usually don't want to start the program, so I have it set to automatic. After you finish programming the radio, your turn is next. The software will continue to program the radio, and the lights will start flashing. At any time you can run a program, power off the radio, or stop the programing by pressing the program button for a few seconds.
