Key features of the FIFA 22 game engine have also been enhanced. The new "Reflex" system more accurately reacts to player movements and is expected to give players a more tactical edge when playing through the game, especially at crucial moments. A new "Fantasy Draft" feature allows players to apply their own skills and create unique player models for the new game features in FIFA Ultimate Team. "FIFA 22 is the most technically advanced game in the entire FIFA franchise history,” said David Rutter, Managing Director of EA SPORTS.

“The strength of the engine and the addition of new technology creates FIFA 22 as the most realistic and authentic football simulation on the planet. It is an honor for our team to work with the greatest football players in the world to deliver this next chapter in the FIFA franchise.” EA SPORTS FIFA 22 will be available for digital download on Xbox One and PC on Sept. 6, and on PlayStation 4 on Sept. 20. The EA SPORTS FIFA Ultimate Team will also be released on Sept. 20, with the launch date on all digital platforms in the U.S. and Canada. The retail release of EA SPORTS FIFA Ultimate Team and FIFA 22 will be October 9. FIFA 22 PITCH CLOCK Timekeepers, captains and coaches will be able to control the game clock. Each time the game clock is displayed, one of these settings will be chosen. The game clock will be displayed in sync with the time on real-life world clocks. GAME MODE EA SPORTS FIFA 22 will feature new game modes - including new UCL, Champions League and Nike World Cup 2018 modes - which have the same physical and social aspects as the real-life tournament with all of its drama, tension and excitement. The new UCL game mode will feature gameplay based on the major clubs from around the world, as well as current club captains in
