How can I do it without going through the corner elements? A: The thing you need to calculate is called the boundary mask of your mesh. You get it by using Mesh -> Boundary -> Mark by Recurrence, and there will be shown you an area of the mesh to modify (in the screenshot I added the region highlighted in red). You can get the indices of the faces that compose the boundary by calculating the list v->f->idx, and then unmark all faces in the list with the except operator -- #ifndef JEMALLOC_INTERNAL_MASK_H #define JEMALLOC_INTERNAL_MASK_H #include #include #include #ifdef __cplusplus extern "C" { #endif bool je_malloc_confused(void); bool je_malloc_under_confusion(void); #define JEMALLOC_MASK_ALL ((size_t)UINT 6d1f23a050
